The Conference of FIIM entitled Finance and Accounting for the Future Economic World's Development indicates a strong contemporary need for graduation research in the area of finance and business practices.

In parallel to the dynamism and the growing complexity of issues encountered in global business, science and more specifically in the discipline of Economics, there are a number of significant animated discussions on paradigm and necessary directions of scientific research and its influence on practical sphere. They are set on the basis of the analysis of the various attributes and aspects of economic activity. The discussions occur on different stages and in different dimensions, recognize the space and performance levels. Taking that into consideration, the scientists and professionals have to strongly cooperate in research activity. The cooperation should lead to learn the truth about the economic reality and its impact on future global business expansion.

The Conference of the Finance and Accounting for the Future Economic World's Development in this connection, provides a forum for business practitioner and scientists. This creates an opportunity to discuss the issues and problems of both the world of business and science. The main goal is to establish the relationship to both worlds – science and practice.

The conference will take place at:
 SGH Warsaw School of Economics
 Building C (no. 11 on the map), Theatre I
